

For Sale: American Cyclery

510 Frederick Street, San Francisco, CA 94117

Established in 1941, American Cyclery is the oldest bike shop in San Francisco and has a rich, long history of providing great bicycles and service to its large customer base in San Francisco and the Bay Area community.

American Cyclery is a family owned, well-established business centrally located in the heart of San Francisco in Cole Valley, next to Golden Gate Park and Kezar Stadium. It has great staff, reviews, and strategic location. Over the past 10 years, it's averaged approximately $1,000,000 gross per year and has been consistently profitable since 1997. This business has a substantial customer list and following, locally and beyond.

Voted Best Bike Shop in America by the National Bicycle Dealers' Association in 2016, 2017 and 2018, many time winner of Best Bike Shop, Best Service Department and Best Place to Find Unique Bicycles in the SF Weekly. Voted Top 100 Bike Dealers in America by Bicycling Magazine, and Best Bike Shop by Outside Magazine.

American Cyclery, while selling high quality bicycles, parts, and accessories, also provides excellent service and repair to a diverse cycling community. The shop offers established brands, from the oldest bicycle company in the world, Bianchi, to the largest bicycle maker, Giant.

American Cyclery

In addition, the shop sells one of the most successful mountain bike brands in Northern California, Santa Cruz Bicycles. With the shop's established supplier network, these companies will likely be eager to partner with a new owner, to continue the strong, long-standing working relationship.

The shop is equipped with a number of workstations, tools, bike racks, POS system, phones, security system, customer lists, and everything required to run a successful repair shop and showroom. American Cyclery also houses an extensive collection of vintage printed materials and ephemera related to cycling. This archived library, along with dozens of rare and exotic bikes, are just part of what this historic bicycle shop holds.

The current owner has owned the business for 24 years and has had great success selling both production and custom bikes, while running a prosperous service department. The owner is selling the business to pursue other opportunities, spend more time with family, and more time riding a bike.

American Cyclery has occupied the same location on the corner of Stanyan Street for 77 years, has a great lease and long-established relationship with the landlord who is motivated to keep the bike shop alive and thriving.
